

HOBSON SOUNDS ANOTHER CALL TO ARMS

Believing Struggle for Mastery of the Pacific is Imminent, the Warrior Feels that Uncle Sam is Unprepared for Conflict.

PREDICTS WAR IN NEAR FUTURE

Tells Congress That United States is Wholly Unprepared For Impending Struggle For Mastery of Pacific and That Own Financiers Will Call Halt on Useless Combat—Representatives Listen, but Refuse to Enthuse Over Appeal For Big Navy.

Washington, Feb. 21.—War between the United States and Japan is inevitable in the near future. The conflict may begin within 10 months. It will last five years, perhaps 10. The Panama canal will be destroyed and in the end this nation will carry the war to Japan and conquer that kingdom. These are a few of the predictions made by Representative Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama, who used to be an officer in the navy, on the floor of the house.

"We will be struck," he cried, "and when we are—gentlemen may differ with me as to the time, but I firmly believe it can be counted in months on the fingers of my two hands—we will find ourselves practically powerless. The nations of the world will call on us to give up the war and not continue to disturb the peace of the world, just as we did with Russia in her war with Japan. Our own financiers will demand that we end an apparently hopeless struggle. Will Not Give Up.

"But we will not give up. We will fight on, humiliated, until it becomes a question of resources. Ever since we went into Hawaii, ever since we took possession of the Philippines, declining to let Japan in there with us; ever since their citizens came to this country and received the treatment from our people that the difference in the races made inevitable, Japan has been preparing for war with us. And the Japanese in this country are helping her."

The Alabama member urged the creation of a vast standing army and the building of a great navy as the only solution of the problem. He contended that the navy of the United States is at present inadequate. At least four battleships instead of the two proposed by the naval committee should, in his opinion, be authorized. Then Mr. Hobson described in detail the terrible conflict that is to be waged.

Must Move Cautiously.

"We must not try to strike the enemy in the early stages of the war," he said. "We will never have the use of the Panama canal. There will be a long struggle for the control of the waterway. The Philippines, Hawaii, Guam, all our island possessions in the Pacific, Alaska, San Francisco and the Puget sound region will be taken by the enemy. We will spend at least $6,000,000 for transport service to the canal zone, and millions to increase our navy."

"Having at last driven the enemy from the canal, we will send our fleet into the Pacific and try to cut the enemy from his base. There will be a great battle. If we lose we will build a great new navy and the war will be prolonged many years. If we win, we will send our army to our own Pacific coast and drive out the enemy."

Mr. Hobson then depicted the stand Japan will make at Hawaii, which, he added, will be taken after a long siege, and then, after five or six years of terrific international combat, the United States would retake Guam and the Philippines, make a dash to Corea, chase the Japanese to their own island kingdom and then subjugate that.

Quite a number of members of the house heard Hobson's speech. They did not appear to be alarmed except over the elasticity of Hobson's imagination.

Mann Filibuster Brings On Gag Rule

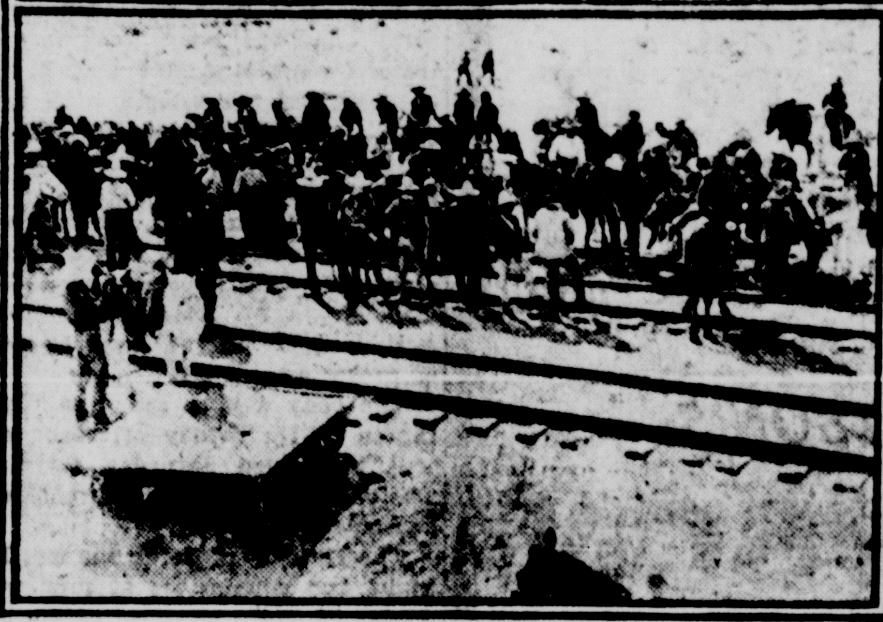

Washington, Feb. 21.—A rule vesting Joseph G. Cannon with more autocratic power than he ever enjoyed in the memorable days that preceded the reform era, was adopted in the house. The rule also confers on the Democratic minority of the house practically a veto power over all bills that may be reported in the remaining days of the session.

The filibuster over the claims bill had made it imperative to adopt measures that would accelerate business in the house. The same was becoming disconcerting and threatened the defeat of one or more of the appropriation bills. This was recognized when the filibuster was broken, and so the committee on rules brought in a resolution which it believed would meet the situation. This provided that for the rest of the session a bill might be taken up under suspension of the rules, a majority concurring. The Democrats did not like this rule, and gave notice that it could not be passed.

After a time Mr. Dalzell returned. He then presented the rule, which was adopted, and which will be the order in the house until congress adjourns March 4. Under this rule any bill may be taken up under suspension of the rules, two-thirds of the house concurring. As the Republicans have only a slim majority, this enables the Democrats practically to exercise the power of veto, as no bill can be put through without the support of the minority.

The war claims bill was passed without delay. This bill will now go to the senate. It will be loaded there with the French spoliation claims and the naval overtime charges, and this means that it will lie in conference.

Revolution In Mexico Combines Comic Features With Tragedy

Photos Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

WHILE the war that is being waged in Mexico has some of the characteristics that General Sherman attributed to armed combat, there are other features that partake of the nature of burlesque. The "soldiers" that make up the revolutionary army have few of the marks of regular troops, and yet they have kept President Diaz's professional fighters busy, and they are perhaps more effective in the guerrilla warfare made necessary by conditions than trained soldiers would be. They have no uniforms, and such weapons as they have are of many types. One of the pictures printed above shows a band of the revolutionists guarding a railroad near where a train had been wrecked. It gives an accurate idea of the personnel of the "rebels." The other picture shows a band of the revolutionists hidden behind rocks in the hills and ready to pick off any government soldiers who may come within range of their rifles. Dispatches from Juarez say that traffic on the railroads has been practically suspended, mining operations are at a standstill, and business is demoralized. This is satisfactory to the revolutionists, no doubt, as all they hope to do is to harass the government while recruiting their numbers.

HOGAN BEGINS OUSTER SUITS

Attorney General Scents Big Trust, Drags Hocking Valley Group of Railways into Open and Asks Circuit Court for Sweeping Decision.

BIG CONSPIRACY IS ALLEGED

Right of Chesapeake & Ohio and Lake Shore Companies to Own Controlling Interests in Hocking Valley, Ohio Central, Kanawha & Michigan and Zanesville & Western Is Also Questioned—Says Part of Action Suggested by Predecessor.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Attorney General Hogan has filed a suit in the circuit court asking for a sweeping ouster of railways embraced in the so-called Hocking coal group and the Chesapeake & Ohio and Lake Shore railways, which have recently purchased the entire or controlling interest in the several railroads. Stock jobbing and an illegal trust conspiracy to stifle competition, and favor certain coal companies are alleged.

Questions raised in the actions against the Hocking Valley, Ohio Central, Zanesville & Western and the Kanawha & Michigan have been more or less threshed out in Ohio courts, but the suits present a new issue in the change of ownership effected last year, whereby the Chesapeake & Ohio secured control of the Hocking Valley and with the Lake Shore bought out the Kanawha & Michigan, and whereby the Lake Shore became owner of the Ohio Central and the Zanesville & Western.

The facts upon which the ouster suit is brought were called to Attorney General Hogan's attention by Former Attorney General Grant Denman, declares Mr. Hogan.

"As to the two other suits there has been considerable discussion and question as to the right of these railroads to hold stock in the other lines," said Attorney General Hogan. "If they have not, it is time the state should find out and proceed accordingly. If they have, it is time the railroads should possess the knowledge of their privilege. But at all events, I want a decision on the question, one way or the other," he declares.

Madero Leaves Guadalupe in Time to Miss Navarro.

El Paso, Feb. 21.—General Navarro and his federals met with no fighting east of Juarez in their advance against the insurgents. A reporter telephoned from Clint, Tex., that he had visited Guadalupe and found General Navarro, Colonel Rabago and their 800 troops at that place, and they said there had been no fighting. He learned from natives that Madero and his command had pressed farther south from the hills to which he retired Friday from Guadalupe. This is presumably to join the insurgent band near Chihuahua, as the local insurrecto junta says is his plan in connection with a scheme to attack the state capital while Navarro is north. Navarro and his men and horses have no provisions and found none at Guadalupe, hence will be in straits unless they can procure them from Texas.

Southern Fruit Crop Reported Damaged to Extent of Millions.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 21.—Damage that will amount to millions of dollars will result, it is believed, from the cold wave that has gripped the south and which, according to United States weather bureau forecasters, will increase in severity for two days.

Following several weeks of midsummer weather, which served to bring out buds on fruit trees, the temperature dropped to the freezing point and remained within a few degrees of that mark for 24 hours.

WOMEN'S PRISON BILL APPEARS

Representative Lowry Asks President Taft to Call Special Session of Congress to Revise Tariff Law. House Takes Up Final Consideration of Dean Municipal Saloon Bill—Debate Is Warm and Vote Not Expected Before Evening.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—In the senate Mr. Dore of Seneca presented an anti-injunction bill which provides that restraining orders shall not be issued without notice to the opposite party, unless shown to the satisfaction of the court that great or irreparable injury would result, and then a temporary injunction shall stand for only five days, when a hearing must be granted.

Mr. Dore also presented two measures dealing with the penal code. One adds the administering of noxious, deleterious or destructive substances with murderous intent to the list of offenses which shall constitute murder in the first degree. The present law only includes administering of poison. The other bill makes it a felony to attempt to administer noxious substances.

Shaffer Drops Two Bills.

Senator Shaffer of Paulding added two measures to the senate list. One provides for the erection and maintenance of a prison, to be known as the Ohio Women's reformatory, in which all females over 16 years of age convicted of felonies shall be imprisoned. The second bill fixes salaries of county officials and limits the amount of their clerk hire to a certain percentage of the gross receipts of the office.

In the house Representative Lowry of Henry county presented a resolution requesting President Taft to call an extra session of congress to revise the tariff.

Mr. Fulton of Licking, in a bill introduced in the house, asks for an appropriation of $200,000 for the reconstruction and repair of the National road through Ohio.

Mr. Kilpatrick of Trumbull county, by request, introduced a measure providing that all candidates for judge in courts of record shall be attorneys-at-law.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—When the Frelner pen probers reached the big prison this morning for a conference with the board of managers they found a "spotless town." Since their last visit a general cleaning up has taken place and everything is now spick and span. The painters, grainers and scrubbers who have been on the work were very glad when they were notified that no further revarnishing and cleaning was to be done.

Scores of letters protesting against the repeal of the Wertz law abolishing contract labor at the Ohio penitentiary are being received by Chairman Reynolds and other members. Many of them are protests against present pen conditions.

NUMBER OF ANIMALS KILLED FOR FOOD

Census Department Issues Statement
Giving Number Consumed in 1909 by
Slaughterhouses and Meat-packing
Establishments.

Census Department issues statement giving number consumed in 1909 by slaughterhouses and meat packing establishments:

Washington D. C., February 21, 1911.—Reports to the Census Bureau from the slaughtering and meat-packing establishments and slaughterhouses of the United States show that during 1909 there were 68,403,000 animals slaughtered for food in those establishments. This total does not represent the entire domestic meat supply of the country, as a large number of animals are slaughtered on farms or elsewhere than in slaughterhouses. In addition there were 411,300 animals reported as having been killed or as dying a natural death and consumed in the manufacture of fertilizers or other products, and many more die on the farms and ranges.

This information appears in a preliminary report which was transmitted today to Census Director Durand by Chief Statistician William M. Stewart. The data were collected in compliance with the act of Congress of February 25, 1910.

SOURCES OF THE REPORTS

Reports were received from 26,424 slaughterhouses, which include the large wholesale slaughter and meat-packing establishments, as well as the abattoirs, rendering or tanning establishments, and fertilizer factories where dead animals are consumed.

The primary object of the census inquiry was to ascertain the number of hides and skins available for the manufacture of leather, but the large number of animals that were slaughtered on the farms and ranges during the year has not yet been ascertained and will not be known until the statistics of agriculture are completed.

The 26,424 establishments reported 68,814,300 animals of all kinds, and of this number 36,443,000 were hogs. A large number of the hogs slaughtered are only partially skinned, one or more strips of hide being removed from the back and used for leather. The entire skin is taken from only a few and it was impossible to ascertain the number of these in the report states.

Exclusive of the hogs, there were 32,371,300 animals reported, as shown by the following statistics:

There were slaughtered for food, 31,960,000; dying natural death or killed and hides taken off, 411,300; total number of hides, 32,371,300.

It is presumed by the Census Bureau that from every animal carcass reported by the 26,424 establishments the hide or skin was removed and used for the manufacture of leather, the product being 32,371,300 hides and skins; but these do not represent the domestic production, as large numbers of hides and skins are obtained from the farms and ranges.

There were 12,337,000 beefs slaughtered in slaughterhouses during 1909, and hides were taken off by slaughterhouses from 154,000 other cattle that were killed or that died a natural death, thus giving 12,491,000 hides for leather.

Calves, sheep, and goats are commonly sold with the skins on by the large slaughterhouses, but the skins are ultimately removed. There were 19,172,000 skins obtained from these animals. The number of kid skins was reported as 25,300, and horse and colt skins as 115,000. There were also 28,000 hides and skins reported as obtained from all other animals, which consist largely of dogs, reported by some of the rendering establishments operated in connection with city governments.

K. of P. Adopts Plans For New Home

The K. P. building committee composed of Jesse Blackmer, George Gregg, M. Hollahan, John Schaum and Dr. C. E. Page, have adopted plans drawn by Bargar Bros., contractors, subject to the approval of the lodge.

Along the line of these specifications an estimate and bids will be asked shortly and submitted to the lodge for acceptance, modification or rejection.

The present plans, if carried out, will insure an elegant lodge home, a credit to the growing prestige of the order and a decided acquisition to Washington's handsome buildings.

These plans show a stately structure of pressed brick, the facade brought out to the property line. The plans cover the entire lot, the present brick building being left as it is in the rear with the one-story side built up two stories high, the full length of the building.

The front will be entirely remodelled.

Within, the ceilings are to be of steel and the rooms handsomely finished in hard wood.

The present assembly hall will be larger by 13½ feet and will be ideal for balls and social affairs. There are four large parlors, 20x20 and two spacious lobbies.

At present the intention is to make the new K. P. club house strictly a lodge home, with attendant social functions and the remodeling will be carried out with a view to the most satisfactory equipment along these lines.

St. Louis, Mo., February 21.—Ten men were seriously injured this morning by an explosion of gas at the Laclede Gas Reservoir. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

REMAINS OF PRIEST WILL BE BURIED HERE

The Springfield Sun Tuesday morning says:

The body of Rev. Father Francis M. Kennedy of St. Raphael church who died Sunday evening as a result of a stroke of apoplexy suffered Sunday morning when he was assisting with the holy communion, will lie in state in the church from three o'clock this afternoon until nine o'clock tomorrow morning, when the funeral services will be begun.

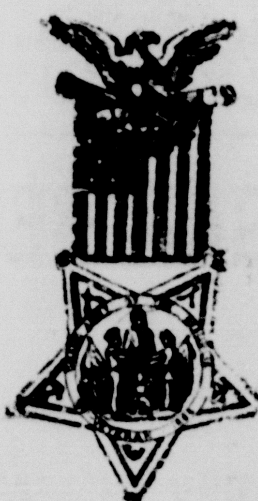

The casket and body will be conveyed to the church at 3 o'clock by six of the local priests, who will chant the Miserere during the procession. The body will then lie in state until the office and mass on tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. At 9:30 o'clock the solemn high mass will be celebrated and Rev. Father Daniel A. Buckley will preach the funeral sermon.

Tomorrow afternoon, the body will be taken to Cincinnati where Pontifical mass will be sung on Friday morning in St. Edward church by Archbishop Moeller, assisted by many of the priests of the diocese.

The body will be taken to Washington C. H., Friday afternoon and will be buried Saturday morning. The priests of the local churches will accompany the body.

The Knights of Columbus met last night and committees of four were appointed to stand guard at the bier during each hour that the body lies in state. John Seggerson, Richard W. Murray, Charles Dunn, Frank Lothschuetz, James S. Kelly, John Coffey, Harry O'Brien, John Garrett, William Mahoney and George W. Tahan were named a committee of the knights to escort the remains to Cincinnati. The order will hold another meeting this evening to make further arrangements.

THE MAN ON THE BOX

Grace Livingston Furniss' play, "The Man on the Box" adapted from Harold McGrath's popular novel of the same name, is a play that is certain to provoke much laughter, and its presentation by John Meehan and a special company at The Empire on Friday, Feb. 24, will surely be the signal for the assembling of all comedy lovers. Almost everybody has read McGrath's entertaining novel and can see in its lines and situations an opportunity for a highly interesting and amusing play, and Miss Furniss in dramatizing the book has made the most of her material. The play has been on tour with Henry E. Dixey in the title role.

The play has for plot the confusion of identities that comedy writers revel in, and the ingenuity of the novelist and the play-wright has resulted in a series of complicated situations that keep the audience on the alert of expectancy and mystery. The fact that the book has been so extensively read makes the theme of the play generally well-known, and it is conceded to be one of America's best and most successful comedies.

GERMAN OFFICE WATCHES CLOSELY ALL COMMENTS

Articles Dealing Critically
With Domestic Relations Censured.

BERLIN, Special.—Drastic methods adopted by the German authorities to check or supervise foreign comments on the domestic affairs of the empire, and to penalize those journalists who, while residing in Berlin, criticize the methods of the government or otherwise conduct themselves in a way which the police disapprove, has just been revealed by the summary expulsion of a French journalist, Dr. Halbwachs, and of a Russian press representative, Dr. Maximoff.

Dr. Maximoff, besides contributing articles to the Russian newspapers which were regarded in Berlin as being exceedingly unfriendly to the German authorities, also incurred disfavor by maintaining close personal relations with the leading Socialist daily of this country, the "Vorwarts," and also by attending various Socialist meetings held to condemn the methods of the Berlin police on the occasion of the recent riots in the north-west districts of the capital.

The French journalist, Dr. Halbwachs, was expelled because he sent communications to the "Humanite," the Paris Socialist organ, in which he severely criticized the behavior of the police during the recent riots.

Expulsions from this country are by no means infrequent, as the authorities can summarily eject any foreigner who, according to their views may be regarded as an undesirable alien, and the only appeal against the decision of the police is to the Prussian ministry of the interior, which almost invariably upholds the decision of its subordinates.

These two cases, however, happened almost simultaneously, clearly show how carefully the imperial government is watching the critics of its policy, and how perfectly the political police are organized to supervise the foreign press representatives stationed in Berlin.

On receiving a curt notification that his expulsion from the country had been decreed, Dr. Maximoff presented himself at the headquarters of the police and inquired why this extreme measure had been taken against him.

He was received with perfect courtesy, and the officials described to him minutely how he had spent his last six months in Berlin, detectives followed him daily in order to collect sufficient evidence of his "improper conduct" to warrant his expulsion.

His movements from hour to hour, his visits to the office of the "Vorwarts," his attendance at Socialist meetings and his fraternizing with various German Socialists were all brought up against him as proofs of the official contention that his conduct was such as to justify his designation as an undesirable alien whose presence constituted a danger to the public safety.

At the outset, Dr. Maximoff was given eight days, within which time he was required to leave the country.

Thinking that perhaps he might persuade the authorities to reverse the decree issued against him, he appealed to the Berlin President of Police, Herr von Jagow, to suspend the order of expulsion. A week later, Dr. Maximoff received a communication from Herr von Jagow saying that the police had not been shaken in their conviction that he was an undesirable alien and informing him that his expulsion would have to be carried out according to the original decree.

Undaunted by this disappointment, Dr. Maximoff made an appeal to the Imperial Chancellor, setting forth the reason why he regarded the action of the police as unjust. This time the action came more quickly and in a different way.

The morning after he had forwarded the appeal to the Chancellor, two detectives came to tell him that he must leave the country within twenty-four hours, and that they would supervise his movements until they had convinced themselves that he had crossed the frontier into foreign territory.

Dr. Maximoff utilized his last day by visiting many of his friends in Berlin, and by dodging about from point to point so as to cause considerable annoyance and inconvenience to the detectives watching his movements.

Wherever he went he was followed, and when, abandoning his usual prohibitions, he went to church, building until he appeared again. Finally, the detectives entered the same compartment of the train in which he left Berlin and traveled with him as far as the first station over the frontier.

The expulsion of Russians who are believed to be in sympathy with the Socialist or Revolutionary movement are fairly common in Prussia but it is very rarely that the police take extreme measures against French journalists practicing their profession in Germany.

In the humble beginnings of famous men recorded in history you will find very little about those who go their start as male persons in the chorus.

OLD PAVEMENTS MADE NEW

A new paving machine which uses old pavements of granite blocks cobbles as the foundation on which to lay a surface of asphalt is described with illustrations in "Popular Mechanics."

This is accompanied by heating the old surface with a large and continuous blast of heated air from the machine. Immediately over the heated surface is applied a coat of melted asphalt or other bituminous cement, the heated condition of the stone causing perfect adhesion. No flame is permitted to come in contact with the stone, so that no part of it becomes overheated or cracked. A final layer of asphalt completes the undertaking, thus converting the old, rough pavement into a smooth and noiseless thoroughfare. The same method is used for resurfacing or patching without asphalt pavements.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF IN DAMAGE CASE

The submission of testimony in the case of Swartzchild & Sulsberger vs. Marion Dunlap was concluded Monday evening, and the arguments consumed practically the whole of Tuesday morning. At 11:45 the case went to the jury. This is a case wherein the plaintiff claims $300 damages for default of contract, alleging that cattle were purchased of defendant to be delivered at a certain time, and that plaintiff failed to deliver same. The defense was that there had been a misunderstanding as to the time of delivery of the cattle. After wrestling with the case until 2:45 p. m. the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff, assessing damages at $77.10. Jos. Gillespie, of this city, is foreman of the jury.

A MORAL LESSON.

There once was a rich old uncle who had two poor nephews. And when Christmas came the two poor nephews were anxious to see the rich old uncle how much the thought of him.

Now the first poor nephew realized that he should impress his rich old uncle with the great affection he bore for him by some tangible means. So he drew out his savings and purchased for his rich old uncle a magnificent gold watch and had it neatly engraved. To it he attached a gorgeous chain, put the whole affair in a lavishly decorated box and sent it to his rich old uncle with his best wishes.

The second poor nephew figured that any extreme financial outlay would convince his rich old uncle that he was trying to jolly him a bit too much, so he invested a nickel in a neat but tasty Christmas card.

So the rich old uncle received the two remembrances and said of the first nephew:

"Humph! A man who will spend all he has for a gold watch to give to a man who already has all the watches he ever will need hasn't got enough judgment to be trusted with money. I will leave him my blessing and a few words of good advice."

When he looked at the card he nodded his head approvingly and said:

"There's a man after my own heart. He knew I would not care for an expensive gift and he knew that I would value his good wishes so he very wisely sent them to me in this inexpensive manner. He shows a marked economical trait and I am sure he will get along in the world without any aid from me."

So he made a new will and left all his money to found an institution for the Study of Prehistoric Manifeftations of Microbic Bacteria in Fossilized Animalculae.—Chicago Post

SPRAYING

How the Best Results
Are Obtained.

BY J. H. GOURLEY.

Assistant Professor of Horticulture,
Ohio State University.

So much has been written on spraying that it may seem superfluous to go over the same grounds again, but the numerous errors made each year by orchardists of some experience, as well as novices, prompts us to again call attention to a plan of spraying for the coming season.

First, we should remember that spraying is only one of the factors in the production of good fruit. We must feed the trees or adopt some system of cultivation; prune intelligently and regularly; thin the fruit when the crop sets too heavily; spray promptly and thoroughly; and pick, pack and market with close attention to details.

FIVE POINTS IN THE STAR OF SUCCESS.

Know the Trouble.

The very first essential in spraying is to know our troubles and the best combative measures. Many err at this point and lose the labor and expense of applying the spray.

Spray Promptly.

The second cardinal point is promptness. A few days' delay may mean that it is too late for a certain spray.

Be Thorough.

Thoroughness is of prime importance if we raise a high per cent of perfect fruit, which should be the ambition of every fruit grower.

Use Materials in Proper Proportions.

Spray solutions must be made properly in the proportions recommended or the results may be disappointing and oftentimes disastrous.

Use a Good Outfit.

Lastly, a good spray outfit will make this as pleasant as any work on the farm, but a poor outfit will be the bane of our existence throughout the spraying season.

Lime Sulphur For San Jose.

If we have the San Jose scale in the orchard, it must be attacked vigorously every year to keep it in subjection. We can use the miscible oils, lime sulphur, or whale oil soap. The lime sulphur solutions are used more extensively than any other treatment. This material can be either prepared at home or purchased ready for use. The latter is to be largely recommended, since our equipment for boiling is usually poor and the amount of time and labor involved will scarcely balance the convenience of the commercial product.

If we prepare the mixture ourselves, the following formula can be used: Fifteen lbs. flowers of sulphur and 15 lbs. good stone lime to 50 gals. of water. Boil the sulphur and lime in 12 or 15 gallons of water for about an hour, dilute to 50 gallons, and apply while hot on the same day it is prepared.

If we purchase the material it will require one gallon of the concentrated lime sulphur to nine gallons of water. Apply while trees are dormant. If the infestation is bad, an application late in the fall and another in early spring should be given. The usual time to apply this solution is before the buds open in the spring. This will kill the San Jose and other scales and destroy the spores of fungus diseases. Some orchardists report good results in destroying the eggs of the apple aphides or green lice.

The Summer Spray.

The second spray for apple should be given just when the blossoms fall (not while in full bloom), with either bordeaux mixture or lime sulphur.

If Ben Davis, Gano, or Black Ben are grown, much better results can be secured by the use of lime sulphur than by bordeaux mixture. A number of other varieties are badly russeted when sprayed with bordeaux and the following season should give lime sulphur a thorough trial as a summer spray.

The commercial solution should be diluted, 1 gallon to 40 gallons of water, including two or three pounds of arsenate of lead to each 50 gallons of spray to control the codling moth, subcilio, and other leaf-eating insects. If bordeaux mixture is used, a dilute solution of 2 pounds copper sulphate (blue vitriol) and 4 pounds of good stone lime to 50 gallons of water, including 3 pounds arsenate of lead, should be effective.

The second spray should be given two weeks after the blossoms fall with the same solution used in the previous one.

About nine weeks after the blossoms fall the next spray should be given. It would be preferable at this time to use bordeaux mixture, especially in southern Ohio. It will not cause much if any russet at this time and will be more effective than lime sulphur in controlling bitter rot, apple blotch, and frog-eye fungus. The solution at this time, for the second brood of the codling moth, can be mixed to include 3 pounds copper sulphate, 4 pounds lime to 50 gallons and 2 pounds arsenate of lead.

If this outline is followed carefully, it should give very good results and perfect fruit. The commercial man in southern Ohio may find it beneficial to apply another spray the first of August.

May Add Two Cavalry Troops.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21. The annexation of two more cavalry troops to the national guard is now practically assured. The request of Governor Harmon for two more troops in the organization of the Ohio national guard was presented at Washington by Colonel Rieger. Officials of the militia believe the chances are good for making a squadron of horsemen in Ohio. The government has filed the requests of the governor and they will be answered March 1.

THE FARMER'S AUTO.

Statistics show that farmers generally are buying more automobiles every year. They are coming to see that a machine is not only a great convenience but saves them money as well. Of course there are some farmers who buy machines to whom the expense is extremely great. The man who takes long and expensive trips in his automobile too frequently, to the neglect of his business, would perhaps be better off without it. But for the farmer who is sane and conservative there is no invention of modern times that will afford as much genuine pleasure and service. It places him for purposes of business in almost immediate personal touch with the towns of his county. It allows him and his family to spend their Sundays or holidays in the far away city with whatever influence of culture it may afford. A pleasant trip and a pleasant return—sometimes. It affords him the opportunity of observing the best methods of farming employed over a wide scope of territory and brings him in contact with influences that have a broadening effect on his mind and character.

The city man may need the automobile to get into the country, but the country man needs it much more urgently, that he may have easy and quick access to the centers of trade and keep pace with the ever quickening step of advancement.

GERM CARRIERS.

Scientists have discovered in late years that the common house fly is dangerous to the health of the human race. It seems that tickling a man's nose is not a starter to what he can do when he tries. There is scarcely a disease known to medical science which he cannot carry on his pad-like feet. Every foot is a miniature hair covered particle of sticky glue. Whenever a fly steps into an assembly of germs, he is likely to carry a large part of his audience with him and vote them else where. A fly's foot is an aggregation of microbes like a frenzied financier's hand in the treasury of a trust company. How industriously the little fellows clean their feet. They work away at it like a lady who has just reached the far side of a Washington street crossing. But they are not discriminating as to where they wipe them and the butter-dish is usually selected as about the right sort of a place for the solemn performance. After the manner of a cat that has stepped in a puddle of tar, they shake loose the germs and microbes and bacteria for general family consumption. But scientists claim that if the country would clean up, it would clean up the flies.

NOTHING IN EXCESS.

Should our schools be continued for more months in the year, is a question that is puzzling a great many of our educators and economists as well. It seems to be the theory that after school has been in session for eight or nine months the boys and girls ought to have the freedom of turning their thoughts and actions into new channels and according to the pleasure of their parents and themselves.

But there is a growing sentiment in many parts of the country on the ground that men and women come to face the serious problems of business too late in life. It is argued that the health of the child can be as well cared for if he is kept in school eleven months in the year as it can if he is kept in for only eight months. In other words he ought at no time to be worked hard enough to interfere with his physical development. That properly alternating periods of study and recreation continued throughout the year will afford better advantages for both physical and mental growth than excessive indulgence in each at given seasons.

Strange to say children are no wiser than grown people and if given the opportunity will go to extremes. Most men on a vacation do themselves more injury than good. Not being accustomed to physical exertion they usually work their poor bodies almost to exhaustion.

The theory of these modern would-be reformers is that work and play in moderation, nothing in excess, is the proper rule for the greatest vigor and the greatest progress.

Cincinnati also has the graft fever, and its grand jury has indicted a bunch, including two big city officials, in an effort to make a cure.

Demagogues to the contrary notwithstanding, there is not, never was, and never will be a market in which every man can sell high and buy cheaply.

After the things he listened to in the Senate it was not surprising that Senator Lorimer had to have his ear operated on.

If John Bull is wise, he'll stop trying to stir up the governments of Europe on the fortification of the Panama Canal. The one thing that this country never would stand for is European meddling in its affairs.

Wonder, when it was that Col. Bryan stepped on a pet corn of Gov.-elect Hoke Smith, who, if we remember aright, was a good Bryan man when he quit the Cleveland cabinet?

Andy Carnegie's reminder that he's made 47 millionaires would arouse more personal interest if he'd add a promise to make us the 48th. A millionaire paragon would be the most unique thing that ever happened.

After San Francisco's agreeing to finance a big international exposition, it does look queer for wealthy Cleveland to be asking Congress to chip in $250,000 to help pay for the Olympic games, to be held there in 1916.

POETRY FOR TODAY

TOMORROW'S BRIDGE.

There's a stream of trouble across my path;
It is black and deep and wide;
Bitter the hour the future bath
When I cross its swelling tide;
But I smile and sing and say:
"I will hope and trust and wait;
I'll bear the sorrow that comes tomorrow,
But I'll borrow none today."

Tomorrow's bridge is a crazy thing;
I dare not cross it now;
I can see its timbers sway and swing.
And its arches reel and bow.
O heart, you must hope away;
You must sing and trust and wait;
"I'll bear the sorrow that comes tomorrow,
But I'll borrow none today."
—Wellspring.

New Pension Bill, If Passed, Will Make Hole In Treasury.

Washington, Feb. 21.—If the Sulloway pension bill, increasing the pension roll about $45,000,000, goes through the senate and is signed by President Taft, the treasury department will be obliged within a short time to issue bonds, perhaps to the amount of $100,000,000. Officials of the department have hope that the bill of Representative Payne, clearing the way for the issuance of Panama 3 per cents, with or without the circulation privilege, will be passed by congress at this session.

Negro Murderer Shot by Posse.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 21.—Sought for 10 days for the murder of a Rock Island brakeman, the negro who did the killing was surrounded and shot to death by the pursuing posse in a canebrake near Des Arc, Ark., and has been identified as Mack Collins, known to the police as "River George."

Wit and Humor

Her Souvenir

"Why did you hurry so?" he asked her when he had finally caught up with her at the foot of the stairs of the cafe.

"Do you remember how the waiter prepared to put a clean tablecloth on our table for fresh guests," she asked, "before we got through listening to the music?"

"Yes," said he.
"Well, then, here," she said, and showed him a large white tablecloth that had been hidden under her coat. "This is it. He laid it on the window sill. Serves him right."

He gazed upon it in amazement. "Why didn't you let me know," he queried, "and I might have taken the table and walked out with that?"

The Difference Explained.

A vigorous young barrister, prosecuting a prisoner, was endeavoring to impress upon the judge the difference between an accident and an assault. "Suppose," he said, "some one hit me in the eye and my eye became black—that could not be called an accident."

"Perhaps not," said the judge dryly, "but that is how you would try to explain it, no doubt."

Affected By the Journey.

"Wot, that clear came from Voorn?"

"Yes, darn it; it must er got full o' sea-sickness comin' over."

The Real Trouble.

"Woman's ignorance of cooking is the bane of married life."

"No; it's woman's ignorance of her ignorance of cooking."

Almost Human.

"That parrot in the corner," remarked the dealer, "is almost human."

"It sure is," responded the customer. "It does a lot of talking without saying anything."

Says a Press Humorist.

"Shakespeare, it is said, never repeated."

"He didn't have to run a daily humorous feature."

"But Montaigne, whenever he saw a good thing, annexed it."

"Ah, he was more like the rest of us."

Different Proposition.

"No," she said firmly, "I cannot marry you. I will be no man's slave."

"Then marry me and be my boss," the young man pleaded.

Whereupon she fell to meditating, for there was something alluring in this proposition.

Beginning Housekeeping.

"How is your wife as a cook?"

"Strictly down to date," answered Mr. Nuwedd. "She pours gravy over a mashed potato and calls it a Sunday."

WIFE GOT TIP TOP ADVICE.

"My wife wanted me to take our boy to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes D. Frankel, of Stroud, Okla. "I said 'put Bucklen's Arnica Salve on it.' She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time." Quickest healer of Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Corns, Bruises, Sprains, Swellings. Best File cure on earth. Try it. Only 25c at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Heard Cly Threaten To Kill His Wife

State Rests In Case Against Columbus Man.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Attorneys for the state rested their case in the trial of Carl J. Cly for the murder of his wife last July. The defense at once opened its case. Mrs. Lavinia Murphy, who lived across the hall from the Cly flat, in testifying for the state, described the quarrel which led up to the shooting.

"When Mrs. Cly came into the house her husband assailed her with angry words," Mrs. Murphy testified. "He said, 'I saw that man kill you in the automobile. Why, you have even taken your hat off so he could love you closer. Look how your hair is mussed and your clothes rumpled. I made up my mind before you came home to kill you, and I am going to do it now.'"

"Mrs. Cly pleaded with him to let her explain, but he refused and called her vile names, saying she was not fit to talk to. Then I heard two shots fired, and Mrs. Cly staggered across the hall into our apartments, bleeding from two wounds in the breast. Then I heard another shot fired in the Cly apartments."

James Culanan, brother-in-law of the dead woman, testified that on April 2 Cly came into the store where he was employed and, pulling a revolver from his pocket, said: "If I ever catch my wife with any other man I'll kill her." Cly then jerked a bunch of letters from his pocket. Culanan said, which were written by Cly's wife to a boarder in Cly's home while he was living in Cincinnati.

Judge Ulric Sloan, attorney for the defendant, moved to direct a verdict for Cly on the ground that Mrs. Cly could have fired the shots that wounded him and brought death to herself, but Judge Kirkend, overruled the motion and the defense proceeded with the introduction of testimony.

COMMANDMENTS MUST STAND WITHOUT CHANGE

Professor Chandler Says They Have Survived Hard Test.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 21.—Church dignitaries of Cincinnati differ as to the proposal coming from the Church of England for the cutting down of the Ten Commandments. The Right Reverend Boyd Vincent, bishop of the Episcopal church, Cincinnati, said:

"I rather believe the proposition to shorten the Ten Commandments is a proposition to shorten the service of the church. In that case it should be favored, as the service could be shortened considerably by simplifying the decalogue."

One of the authorities on English literature in Cincinnati, Professor Frank W. Chandler of the department of literature, University of Cincinnati, said:

"The Ten Commandments must be regarded as good in their present literary form, else they would not have survived the test of tradition. Of course the commandment on the 'Thou shalt not covet,' like the other nine, was made for the guidance of a primitive people and therefore was minute in its specifications. Today a man might not covet his neighbor's ox nor his ass because, in all probability, his neighbor would have neither. But in considering the verbiage of this commandment, which I understand it is sought to shorten, he would be moved to the thought of something he might covet of his neighbor, such as his clothes, or his house; yet it would seem foolish to change the commandments for this reason."

Martin's Successor Named

Virgil C. Lowery Is Now Judge In Seventh Judicial District.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Virgil C. Lowery of Logan, Democrat, was appointed by Governor Harmon as common pleas judge in the Seventh Judicial district, to succeed Judge George E. Martin of Lancaster, appointed on the commerce court by President Taft. Lowery has served as state senator. He was named over a field of five candidates.

Harmon's other appointments included E. W. Crow of Meigs county as a trustee of Ohio State university, to take the place of J. M. Welch, who died recently; Joseph Ryan of Noble county, to succeed Judge H. L. Ferneding of Dayton, elected to the circuit bench, and C. Z. Brundidge of Huron county, to the board of trustees of the Mansfield state reformatory. Brundidge's term will expire April 27, 1916.

Vacancies in the state board of health were filled by the appointment of Dr. H. T. Sutton of Muskingum county to take the place of Dr. J. C. Crossland, whose term expired; Dr. Oscar Hasenkamp, Lucas county, to succeed W. C. Chapman, and Dr. R. H. Grube, Greene county, to succeed Dr. H. G. Palmer of Ashtabula county.

Final Fight Is Now Waging

Debate Over Dean Bill In House Is Warm From Start.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Soon after the house convened this afternoon the Dean municipal saloon bill was brought up for final consideration. The debate was heated from the word go and it is not probable that a vote will be reached before 5 or 6 o'clock this evening. Friends of the Stockwell senatorial bill sought to filibuster against the Dean bill by moving that it be sent to the foot of the calendar, to stay there until the Stockwell measure passed the senate, but the motion was defeated.

Body Sighted at Sea.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—A floating body which bore a resemblance to Richard L. Ashurst, postmaster here, who mysteriously disappeared from Atlantic City several weeks ago, was sighted at sea by the fruit steamer Admiral Schley. It was floating face downward at a point about 120 miles south of Atlantic City.

Happenings In Ohio

Former Officials Quizzed.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 21.—Two former county treasurers and the attorney for a third were before the grand jury here, and as a result it is the general belief that the body is taking up the investigation of alleged gratuities paid to county treasurers by banks at the point where the Drake investigating committee left off in 1906. John H. Gibson, Tilden H. French, both former treasurers, and Miller Outcalt, attorney for Rudolph H. Hynicka, another former treasurer, were before the inquisitorial body.

Canniff Took No Chances.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 21.—"I couldn't say that I was terrified, but I felt that discretion was the better part of valor, so I lay perfectly still as I was commanded to do," said President W. H. Canniff of the Nickel Plate railroad in relating his experience with a burglar at his home here. Mr. and Mrs. Canniff remained perfectly quiet while the burglar helped himself to $150 worth of jewelry.

Machinists to Help Strikers.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 21.—The strike of the boilermakers in the shops of the New York Central railroad lines has the sympathy of the machinists and blacksmiths employed in the shops according to the officials of the boilermakers' union, and within a few days it is claimed that more than 2,000 machinists and blacksmiths will walk out in sympathy.

Noted Criminal Is Dead.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—"Burglar Jim" Anderson is dead. A third stroke of apoplexy caused the death of the famous crackman. He was boarding in the home of J. C. Masters, near Linden. When he failed to respond to a call investigation was made. Anderson was found lying dead on his bed.

Third Rioter Sentenced.

Newark, O., Feb. 21.—Judge Seward sentenced Oliver Timmons to 15 years' imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary. Timmons was the third man charged with murder in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherrington last July. He entered a plea of guilty on charge of manslaughter.

Thug Blinds Victim.

Youngstown, O., Feb. 21.—Simon Noassask was struck in the eye and his sight destroyed by a thug who demanded his money. Noassask, blinded by the pain, made no resistance, but gave up his money and his watch.

FAYETTE COUNTY HEIRS INTERESTED

The Chillicothe Gazette, Tuesday morning, says:

Judge Goldsberry this afternoon acted as auctioneer, a duty rarely devolving upon the Common Pleas court, and sold the Black land, a farm of 137 1-2 acres in Buckskin township, to Mary J. Greenlee, one of the heirs to the land, for $6350. The land was sold two weeks ago in front of the court house by Deputy Sheriff Sweetson, to Charles Mossbarger, for $5630. All the heirs then filed a petition in Common Pleas court asking that the sale be set aside and offering more money. The matter came up for hearing in Common Pleas court Saturday and Judge Goldsberry ordered the sale set aside. Several of the heirs then announced that they would take the land for the price named in the petition to set aside the sale, and the court, being unable to take all the bids, agreed to accept the bid of the heir offering the highest price. Mrs. Greenlee bid the highest, and the court ordered the deed made to her. The settlement of the estate has created considerable litigation in this and Fayette counties.

THE MAN ON THE BOX, which is to be presented at The Empire Theater on Friday, February 24, for one night, by John Meehan and supporting company, has been styled "America's best comedy". It has always been a prime favorite with theatergoers since first produced by Henry E. Dixey. The play amuses by mirth of genial whimsicality and holds the interest upon the disentanglement of its situations, as a well made play should. The characters are drawn with the human touch of good comedy. If you have read the book, you should surely see the play, as the dramatist has followed the lines of the novel very closely.

Chillicothe Railway Shops Shut Down

The B. & O. shops at Chillicothe were closed Monday and will remain closed until the first of March. Quite a number of men are thus thrown out of work. The reason given is that a policy of retrenchment has been inaugurated by the road. It is reported that hundreds of men are leaving Chillicothe for the farm, having found that it is cheaper to live in the country and that in the long run as much money is saved.

FIRST READING OF IMPORTANT BILL

The country generally is interested in the Yount bill, better known perhaps as the Telephone Utility bill, which comes before the legislature tonight for its first public hearing. Embodied in this bill is the merger proposition by which telephone companies doing business in the same locality, or where their lines intersect, may operate in connection with each other; the telephone commission by appointment of the governor to govern rates, amount of stock, capitalization, etc., and other features of vital importance to both telephone companies and their patrons.

The proposed bill provides in substance and effect, that the governor appoint a telephone commission, consisting of three persons, who shall serve for a period of two years and at the end of said time the duties of the commission shall devolve upon the railroad commission or upon a general utilities commission if one shall meanwhile, be created by law.

This merger bill is being promoted with the object of effecting a consolidation that shall be equipped for better service yet so controlled by this commission that it can obtain from the merger no undue advantage.

Manager M. B. Shank, of the Citizens' Home Telephone Company, who is a member of the State Board of the Independent Telephone Association, expects to go up to Columbus for the reading.

Modern Woodmen Class Adoption

Fayette Camp No. 4242, Modern Woodmen of America, of Washington C. H., will adopt a class of thirty new members on Thursday evening, the 9th of March. The Drill Team and officers of Ohio Camp No. 3735, of Columbus, will confer the adoption ceremony. They will come under the escort of the famous Drum and Bugle Corps located at Columbus barracks, U. S. army, the members of which are also members of Ohio Camp.

State Deputy Consul, N. C. Sherrburne, of Newark, and National Auditor Edward B. Thomas, of Columbus, are expected to be present and other Woodmen from surrounding towns. This class has been secured with the assistance of District Deputy M. M. Redding, who is in charge of the field work of the society in this part of the state. The members of the society in this vicinity are looking forward to this class adoption as a red letter day for Woodcraft in Washington C. H.

A special hall will be secured for the ceremony, which with further details will be announced later.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

GEORGE WASHINGTON SUPPER.

Some people use roosters for pot pie, but not us, we are going to have 100 stall-fed young hens for our supper, to be given in the basement of the Presbyterian church, February 22.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Come down. We want to show you. At the fashionable hotels and eating houses where you have music by a full orchestra during the dinner, the price is not less than a dollar. We are not only going to have the meal, but some of the best musical talent that the city affords.

SELF-SUPPORTING STUDENTS.

Is It True That They Are Not Wellcome or Popular?

Formerly a student who worked his way through college anywhere was regarded with approval, even heroized. Now he meets with condemnation on both sides, from his associates in his work because he is willing to do anything and do it cheap, and from his associates in his study because he lowers the tone of the college and does not contribute to its athletics and social display.

Many of our colleges were started with the idea that students should support themselves, at least in part, by labor for the college, such as putting up the buildings, working on a farm, etc. But as the institutions have grown in numbers and wealth this plan has been abandoned, in most cases completely, and today we are further from it than ever and heading in the opposite direction.

If a student builds a brick wall nowadays to learn how, he is made to tear it down again. That is, even in so-called industrial schools he is not allowed to work, but compelled to play at working. It is no wonder that some of our most clear sighted and self-respecting young men desert our colleges every year through sheer disgust. The artificiality of it makes them tired.

It is idle to deplore the increasing predominance of the leisure class in our colleges when we are by force of law and public opinion compelling college students, as we have convicts, to become a leisure class. I see only two movements which might counteract the prevailing tendency to make higher education in increasingly expensive and parasitic.

One is the plan of the University of Cincinnati by which engineering students work alternately two weeks in the class-room and two weeks in the shops. The other way is to bring higher education to the people who are at work by some form of university extension—Independent.

MIND AND MUSCLE.

Every expression—attention, as tonishment, reflection, laughter, grief, good-will, malice, etc.—is found to be determined by the play of special muscles. Most often, the contraction of a single muscle is sufficient to express a state of mind, a feeling, an emotion, or a passion; it is not necessary to modify all the features to give to the face the appearance of grief, gaiety, attention etc. Each of these sentiments or psychologic states is painted on the visage by a slight modification of the eye or the lip alone. Each expression has its note—exact, precise unique, produced by a single local modification, which seems to be reflected over the whole physiognomy—Art of Facial Mimicry by Dr. N. Little Fedoroff.

Many a man has used his club to silence his wife.

Holding a fortune is not less difficult than catching it.

BITS OF SCIENCE.

Epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis used to be rare in France, occurring chiefly in military centers. Now a doctor is likely to meet with it in general practice. If the antineurotic serum of Dr. Gopier or Wasserman is used at an early stage the disease generally stops and clears up in two or three days without leaving any traces.

That the earth must shine on the moon even as the moon shines on the earth is obvious. To detect this light from the earth in the lunar surface and scientifically prove its existence is another matter. It is interesting to find that a recent number of French astronomical paper contains two photographs of parts of the moon illuminated by earth light. They were taken by M. Quenisset at the Juvicy observatory.

Gault Squares Matters At Lorain

Arrested Gault, the young carpenter this city, who was arrested last night and turned over to the police authorities of Lorain, has returned. Gault was charged with deserting his wife, who, it seems, preferred to remain in Lorain instead of coming to this city with her husband.

When Mr. Gault reached Lorain he had no difficulty in squaring himself with the officers and his family. He was allowed to return to his home. He states that he does not wish to live in Lorain on account of the preponderance of the foreign element and the drinking proclivities of that element. Mr. Gault and his wife prepared to return to this city some time ago and had everything packed for the trip, when she suddenly refused to come. Rather than have her there Mr. Gault came on to this city and went to work, expecting his wife would conclude to follow him later. He was somewhat surprised when later arrested for desertion.

Now that the matter has been satisfactorily arranged it is announced within a short time Mrs. Gault will join her husband here.

WILL E. DALE

COURT ST. ON THE ALLEY

MEMOIR
Leona Fisher, daughter of R. A. and Alma Richardson, was born Sept. 3rd, 1884, at Wilmington, O., and died Feb. 16th, 1911, aged 26 years, 5 months and 13 days. She was united in marriage with Charles W. Fenimore, April 21st, 1904, by the late Dr. J. L. McNair, under whose pastorate she had united with the Presbyterian church at East End chapel, when a small child. For a number of years she was a faithful teacher and worker in that little mission Sunday school, and has always remained a faithful Christian, doing with her might what her hands found to do.

She leaves a devoted husband, a father, four sisters, Mrs. Stella Terry, of Dayton; Mrs. Effie Poole, Ruth and Helen Richardson and one brother, Russel, all of this city, and a host of friends who sincerely mourn her loss.

She was possessed of a cheerful, sunny disposition, and the happy faculty of making and keeping friends. Those who knew her best loved her most. She had been in failing health for over a year. All that loving hands could do was done to restore her to health and keep her on earth where she was so much needed by her bereft husband, and so tenderly loved by all who knew her.

During her long illness she bore her suffering with true Christian fortitude, never murmuring never complaining, but meeting all her friends with a smile and a cheery word. Life in this world for her was short. Though she has gone from us we love her still.

"She sleeps the sleep that knows no waking. She's done with all life's joys and tears. She's left behind hearts broken—breaking. To travel through this vale of tears."

God lent her to us, for our pleasure. The Giver has now claimed His own. He blessed us with lavish measure. The God of Heaven—Tis He alone.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank all the neighbors and friends, the W. R. C., the L. O. T. M., the I. O. R. M., the U. R. K. COUNTY INFIRMARY SELLS CATTLE

The County Infirmary has just disposed of a bunch of 16 head of cattle, which were sold in the market at Pittsburg Monday, bringing $949.93. This is an average of only $59.37 per head. The cattle were neither large nor very good.

Infirmary Director Hugh Rogers went to Pittsburg and was present at the sale of the animals.

GREAT HANDCUFF ACT AT COLONIAL THEATER

Manager Ramsey's first attempt to introduce a new vaudeville in the Colonial last night met with public approval and crowded houses at both shows. Lady Raffles and Phenomenal Cruze gave the cleverest exhibition of the novelty handcuff act ever witnessed in this city. The booth, which stood on the rear of the stage, was seldom entered, the work being done openly on the stage, with no protection except a coat held in front of Lady Raffles' hands. Her arms were locked with the newest patterns of hand-cuffs, used in the large cities, and she released herself in 20 seconds from 6 pairs of cuffs not only removing them unlocked, but relocked as a linked chain. Mr. Cruze made the announcement that cuffs were used that were furnished by the sheriff or chief of police. Sheriff Nelson had promised to appear last evening, bringing handcuffs with him, but was detained.

Mr. Cruze also made the offer from the stage that Lady Raffles would guarantee that if any of the city banks would permit her locked in the bank vault she would release herself in a few minute without injuring the lock.

This handcuff act is of amazing interest and Lady Raffles is wonderfully clever.

Joe Kennedy gave a good exhibition in trick roller skating and also buck and wing dancing on skates, something never seen here before.

"The Hot-Tamale Girl" was a taking vaudeville specialty, and Harrington and Miller in their comedy sketch a different style of laugh producer.

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS AS NOW PROPOSED

Federal Committee's Redistricting Plans. Crumpacker Reapportionment Measure Likely to Pass—Ohio to Have One More Representative, Requiring Drawing of New District Lines.

The increase in the population of the United States thereby increasing representation in the lower house of suit in the passage of the Crumpacker Congress, will in all probability result in reapportionment measure, which will give Ohio 22 instead of 21 congressmen, as at present. This will require drawing new lines around congressional districts, making "bootlegs" occasionally to render districts safe politically, etc. As the Democrats are in power in Ohio it will fall to that party to make the districts. Numerous plans have been submitted:

In one scheme discussed in Washington only three districts are left intact. These are the two Cincinnati districts and the Columbus district.

The following is one plan of division:
First—Eastern half of Hamilton county, population 233,591.
Second—Western part of Hamilton county, population 227,141.
Third—Darke, Montgomery and Preble counties, population 230,520.
Fourth—Brown, Butler, Clermont, Clinton, Green and Warren counties, population 292,564.
Fifth—Champaign, Clark, Logan, Madison, Miami and Shelby counties, population 212,842.
Sixth—Allen, Auglaize, Hancock, Hardin, Mercer and Van Wert counties, population 212,948.
Seventh—Defiance, Fulton, Henry, Paulding, Putnam, Williams and Wood counties, population 197,751.
Eighth—Lucas and Ottawa counties, population (approximated), 225,000.
Ninth—Erie, Huron, Lorain, Sandusky and Seneca counties, population 226,162.
Tenth—Ashland, Crawford, Marion, Morrow, Richland, Union and Wyandot counties, population 198,595.
Eleventh—Coshocton, Delaware, Fairfield, Knox, Licking and Perry counties, population 217,671.
Twelfth—Franklin county, population 221,671.

Fourteenth—Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson and Tuscarawas counties, population 218,390.
Fifteenth—Muskingum, Guernsey, Morgan, Monroe, Noble and Washington counties, population 206,566.
Sixteenth—Holmes, Medina, Portage, Summit and Wayne counties, population 216,125.
Seventeenth—Athens, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs and Vinton counties, population 216,152.
Eighteenth—Carroll, Columbiana and Stark counties, population 215,152.
Nineteenth—Ashtabula, Mahoning and Trumbull counties, population 228,367.
Twentieth—Geauga, Lake and Eastern townships of Cuyahoga, river and certain eastern wards of Cleveland, Newburg excepted estimated population 225,097.
Twenty-first—Wards of Cleveland, estimated population 225,097.
Twenty-second—Wards of Cleveland, including Newburg and Cuyahoga county west of the Cuyahoga river, estimated population 225,097.
Under the reapportionment, Ohio comes within two per cent. of having a large enough population for 23 congressmen. This will leave some of the districts large, but under one redistricting plan the smallest will be the Fifth district with 19,775 population and the largest, the Dayton district, with 230,530.

MARTHA CAHILL WILL PROBATED

The last will and testament of the late Mrs. Martha Rowe Cahill, which has been probated, disposes of an estate of $3200, outside of a trust of 56 acres of land, which is part of the dower of the decedent's mother, Mrs. Eliza Rowe. The will provides that nothing be done with the land until after the death of her mother.

The decedent, after providing for funeral expenses, monumental work and the payment of all just debts, directs that certain real estate and securities be sold and that the following bequests be made: To the W. C. T. U., $100; to the W. R. C. No. 12, $100, and to Grace M. E. church, $250. The deceased was a member of all these organizations. She provides that the money bequeathed to Grace church be placed at interest and the interest be applied on the minister's salary annually.

From the money remaining the testator directs that Mrs. Rosa Printz shall have $100 and each of her three children $50; to Mary B. Rowe $100, and to Sarah L. Marshall, $25. All funds remaining are to be divided equally between her nephew, Harry R. Rowe, of Canal Dover, and niece, Rosa Hostetter, of Los Angeles, Cal.

The testator directs that after the death of her mother, the 56 acres of land be sold and the proceeds be divided one-half to her brother, Wesley H. Rowe, and the remaining half equally between Harry Rowe and Rosa Hostetter.

A fine steel engraving of George Washington, once the property of the late Jessie Rowe, is bequeathed to the G. A. R. of the county with instructions that the famous portrait shall be hung on the walls of the Memorial Hall.

I. N. Rowe was named as executor and in case of his death, W. H. Dial. Mr. Rowe has given bond in the sum of $6000. The will bears date of June 7, 1910, and was witnessed by Mrs. S. L. Marshall and Nell M. Marshall.

MATTERS of INTEREST

Women and Children.

THE PROOFS OF LOVE

THE other day the newspapers printed a little comedy that shows how much funnier real life is than anything the humorists ever imagined. According to the story, a young woman in Hoboken is in love with a youth who had planned to go back to Germany to spend Christmas with his family. The girl did not approve of this plan. She wanted her very Christmas with her sweetheart in this side of the water. She begged, pleaded and cajoled to no purpose.

The young man was obstinate. It was the Fatherland for him. He bought a ticket, had his baggage sent down to the ship, and blithely started on his trip, only to be arrested as he set foot on the gangplank of the steamer. The girl had charged him with having stolen $150. He protested his innocence, and as soon as the ship pulled out into midstream the young woman flung her arms around his neck and began madly kissing him, declaring that the charge against him was false, that he had never taken a cent of her money, and that the reason she had him arrested was that she couldn't bear for him to go away and leave her, and she knew of no other way to keep him.

Isn't that enough to knock the little winged god off his perch? What do you suppose that man did as he thought of his forfeited passage money and his brand new steamer trunk voyaging across the rolling deep while he remained in Hoboken? Of course no gentleman will ever lay his hand in aught but kindness upon a woman, but there are times when he would like to, and if under such provocation as this he did, nobody could blame him. Unhappily we are not informed as to the subsequent proceedings, but the chances are that he took the whole matter as a proof of how desperately in love the girl was with him, and his vanity was so flattered thereby that he forgave her on the spot and didn't even scold her.

This little incident is an amusing illustration of the queer standards we set up by which to judge not only our own affection but that of others for us. The real tests of love are as simple and accurate as the rule of three. They are unselfishness and service. The man that really loves a woman puts his greatest pleasure in working for her. He surrounds her with tenderness. The woman who really loves a man has no thought of herself; only of what is best for him, and she finds no drudgery in doing even the meanest task if it is for him.

But, curiously enough, these genuine proofs of love are passed over by most people in favor of spurious and spectacular tests that really mean nothing. You never hear any one say, for instance, how devoted Mrs. Brown is to her husband, because she does her own housework to save the price of a servant, and in wearing her last year's hat without a murmur, because she thinks he is working too hard and wants him to feel that he can afford a midwinter vacation.

On the contrary, every one says, "How frantically in love Mrs. Perkins is with her husband!" because she spends half of her time marcelling her hair and manicuring her hands so as to keep them in a nice squeezable condition and always dresses up in her prettiest frocks so that she will look attractive to him.

Does the man who gets hump-shouldered and old before his time, striving to provide his wife with frills and furbelows, get any credit for giving proof of being inspired by a grand passion? Not at all. The man who is pointed out as an ideal lover to his wife is the one who makes pretty speeches to his better half and very likely lets her take in boarders to support him.

And the queer part of the situation is that we accept these absurd standards of value in love ourselves. Who has not known men who actually enjoyed being henpecked half out of their lives because they considered that their wives petty tyrannies showed that their spouses were always thinking about them and anxious for them? Who has not known a man whose career in life has been wrecked by his wife's refusal to let him go away from her for a few months? Yet the man took this evidence of monumental selfishness on his wife's part as a token of her great devotion to him instead of realizing that it only showed that she was incapable of affection for any one but herself?

It is also common to hear a poor, sickly little woman who needs rest, or change of air and scene, brag that her husband loves her so well that he can't bear to be parted from her long enough to let her have the winter in the south or the summer in the mountains that would save her life, or that she has to do most of the cooking because her husband is so fond of her that he thinks that just her touch makes the food taste better.

These women do not stop to consider that real love would make a man willing to make any sacrifice to save his wife, and that he would not any kind of servant girl food forever before he would have her dear hands worked beyond their strength.

Jealousy is in reality the ultimate insult that men and women can offer each other. It is an open accusation of one's doubts and suspicions of another, and yet it is almost universally regarded as a proof of love. A man is rather flattered when a woman is jealous of him, and a woman is never more sure that a man really and truly loves her than when he gets green-eyed if she speaks to another man.

CARD INDEX FOR MODERN HOUSEWIFE

The housewife, whose kitchen is full of modern appliances, will hail with delight the new kitchen card index for favorite recipes, cleaning devices and other useful information, which each new cook has to be taught.

The young housewife may start with a few cards in a small index box set on the kitchen dresser, then as she accumulates more and more useful information or gets better recipes for the same things she can discard and enlarge her file until she has enough to fill up one drawer or a small cabinet which may be put on a shelf in a convenient spot.

Then when she wants to clean something and is not quite sure how to do it, she opens the drawer, finds the name of the article, and there is the very latest idea, clipped perhaps from the daily paper or supplied by a friend, telling her how to do the cleaning and exactly what the results will be.

A small card index may be made at home out of a stiff shoe box, or in fact any cardboard box, divided off by strips of cardboard with a letter clearly inscribed at the top.

Between these 26 partitions, put blank cards which can be bought at any stationery shop, and write or type on them clearly the recipe you want to remember, or paste your newspaper clippings on them in alphabetical order and your index is complete.

The Benefits of Salt.

Salt as a gargle will cure soreness of the throat.

Salt in solution inhaled cures cold in the head.

Salt water is good to clean willow-ware and matting with.

Salt in the oven under baking time will prevent scorching on the bottom.

Salt puts out a fire in the chimney.

Salt and vinegar will remove stains from discolored teacups.

Salt and soda are excellent for bee stings and spider bites.

Salt thrown on soot which has fallen on carpet will prevent stain.

Salt put on ink when freshly spilled on carpet will help in removing spot.

Salt in whitewash makes it stick.

Salt thrown on a coal fire when it is low will revive it.

Gold Slippers.

Very handsome evening slippers for full dress are sometimes fashioned of cloth of silver or gold, and often of brocade.

Saving Plumbers' Bills.

During the season when frozen water pipes cause trouble, many a plumber's bill may be saved by the use of a hot water bag. Leave the faucets turned on and lay the bag, filled with hot water, on the exposed place in the pipes. A few trials will show where the trouble is. Refill with hot water as often as necessary, until the water runs.

Potato Soup.

Shred a large onion in three parts of milk, add two stalks of celery, cut fine, put in double boiler and let it come to a boil. In the meantime pare and boil six or seven medium sized potatoes; when done, mash thoroughly, beat light and add to the boiling milk put in a lump of butter equal to two tablespoonfuls, when melted, season with pepper and salt, put through a sieve and serve at once.

House-Renting and House-Selling Are Want Ad Tasks

They are such "usual tasks" for the want ads that it would be hard to find a rented house whose tenant did not find it through answering an ad—or an owned house whose purchase and sale did not originate in a classified ad.

If these facts are not significant to owners of property, no facts whatever would be.
